Center for Green Schools Featured on the TODAY Show for Earth Day

Published on 22 Apr 2013 | Written by Marisa Long | Posted in Center for Green Schools

Rachel Gutter (far left) and The Green Bronx Machine's Steve Ritz + students build Green Apple living walls on the Today Show.

The Center for Green Schools team was up bright and early this morning for the Earth Day segment on the TODAY Show, where we worked with the Green Bronx Machine to build living walls on the plaza and teach the crowd about the importance of sustainability in schools. The segment was a huge success – the students built six living walls on the plaza, and were joined by TODAY Show hosts Matt Lauer, Savannah Guthrie, Al Roker and Natalie Morales, along with celebrity chef Giada De Laurentiis, who used herbs from the wall to create a healthy and delicious meal on-air.

If you missed the segment live, you can watch it on today.com. Also be sure to check out our website, mygreenapple.org, to learn more about the Green Apple initiative and how you can get involved in this year's Green Apple Day of Service!

Marisa Long
Public Relations & Communications Director
U.S. Green Building Council

USGBC staff

USGBC Articles can be accessed in the USGBC app for iOS or Android on your iPhone, iPad or Android device.

0 comments

Leave a comment

Leave a comment

Don't have an account? Create one

You must be signed in to leave a comment.

Email

Password

SIGN IN

Address
2101 L Street NW
Suite 500
Washington, DC 20037

Within the United States:

1-800-795-1747

Outside the United States:
1-202-742-3792

© 2012-2015 U.S. Green Building Council