

Friday Roundup: Public Comment, Portability and Parking Lots

Published on 5 Oct 2012

Written by Jennifer Easton

Posted in Industry

Starbucks re-imagines their stores (Photo credit: internets_dairy)

Our weekly collection of green building clips. Share your good reads of the week in the comments below.

- Fifth public comment for LEED v4 opens: Open Oct. 2 to Dec. 10, public comment allows anyone to view the most recent draft of the LEED rating systems and provide input. New features include a video on how to submit comments and ability to participate on LEEDuser.
- An Experimental New Starbucks Store: Tiny, Portable, And Hyper Local, FastCoDesign.com
- Enlightened business strategy: closing the sustainability gap, The Guardian: Companies that prosper in future will be the ones that take action on sustainability now.
- Solar panels to provide lots of cool, shady airport parking, Arizona Daily Star: Tucson International Airport reimagines the parking lot with vegetated walls, a solar-powered canopy, and more.
- LEED rating system for green building grows into global phenomenon, MercuryNews.com

Jennifer Easton
Marketing & Communications Project Manager
U.S. Green Building Council

Member employees, USGBC staff

3 comments

Leave a comment

Kathryn West
Sustainability Consultant, Merrick & Company

2 years 15 weeks ago

it's a beautiful store! I hope it stay where it is :) and yes alliterations are absolutely awesome.

Kathryn West
Sustainability Consultant, Merrick & Company

2 years 15 weeks ago

I don't understand using the term "portable" is this new? re: MRP2

Jennifer Easton
Marketing & Communications Project Manager, U.S. Green Building Council

2 years 15 weeks ago

Hi Kat - Saw your comment on the Fast Co article as well. I believe the author is referring to the fact that the Starbucks unit was constructed in a factory & delivered in a truck - not portable as in mobile. I looped it in to the title of our Roundup because we like alliterations... :)

Leave a comment

Don't have an account? Create one

You must be signed in to leave a comment.

Email

Password

SIGN IN